The monthly meeting of the Chamber of Com-merce yesterday was crowded. James M. Brown presided. The following resolutions were sub-mitted by the Executive and Finance Committees, iointly.

initied by the Executive and Finance Commerces jointly:

Whereas, In the opinion of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New-York, it is desirable that the metallic money of the United States should consist of gold and silver coin of interchangeable relative value, and that coinage should be regulated in accordance with the needs of commerce and the convenience of the people; and

Whereas, The amount of silver dollars new accumulated in the Government vaults is largely in excess of the wants of commerce, and whereas experience has demonstrated that this excess cannot be used at present as a circulating medium; and

Whereas, The continued coinage of two millions of dollars per month constitutes a grave element of disturbance and danger to the financial and epimmercial interests of the country; therefore, lars per monta constants and epimmercial interests of the country; therefore,

Resolved, 1st, That in the opinion of this Chamber the public good requires that the comage of silver dollars should be immediately suspended by act of Congress, for a period of at least two years.

Resolved, 2d, That in the opinion of this Chamber Congress should prohibit the further issue of hills of a smaller denomination than five dollars, and thus insure the substitution of silver coins for such bills.

Resolved, 3d. That a committee of twenty be appointed by the chair, of which the vice-president shall be chairman, whose duty it shall be to prepare a memorial to Congress embodying the spirit of the foregoing resolutions, and to cause the same to be circulated for the signatures and endorsement of the citizens of this State, and also to invite the co-operation of leading commercial tooftes in other States, and that said committee be empowered to present such memorial to Congress and to urge immediate legislation thereou.

Charles S. Smith, chairman of the Executive powered to present such memorial to Congress and to urge immediate legislation thereon.

Charles S. Smith, chairman of the Executive Committee said, in part:

At the end of 1883 United States notes outstanding were $347,000,000. The silver stored in Treasury vaults, on September 30, 1883, and since increased by ten millions, was $146,000,000. There is to-day in efreulation of United States silver coth, leaving trade dollars out of this estimate, $91,000,000. There is to-day in efreulation of United States silver coth, leaving trade dollars out of this estimate, $91,000,000. There is to-day in efreulation of this estimate, $91,000,000. Of the total coinage of standard silver dollars under the Act of February 28, 1878, up to the end of last fiscal year, (June 30, 1883,) announting to $147,000,000, less than $33,000,000 has gone into circulation, or about 24 per cent; and during the last year ending the same date, only $3,275,000, or about 11 per cent of the year's coinage, left the Government vaults. In England silver is only a legal tender for $20 or $10, while with us, as with France, silver is a legal tender for an unlimited amount.

F. L. Talcott sand that the merchants should go to Congress in a spirit of compromise, and ask that silver coinage be reduced one-half for the next two years. F. B. Thurber advocated a compromise. William H. Lyon opposed the resolutions, declaring that if the United States should continue to coin silver at the rate of $2,000,000 a mouth for fifty years the total would not equal the amount in circulation in France. Jackson 8. Schultz and Charles Watrous supported the resolutions.

F. A. Conkling said:

The attempt on the part of Congress to impose upon the people 50,000,000 begus dollars is impertinent and will be abortive. The silver dollar is a lie upon its face. It represents a value of 100 cents and is worth only $4 cents. The people of this country will never accept of it at 100 cents under any circumstances. Nothing marks the degradation of our recent politics so much as the these bogus dollars.

James B. Colgate objected to the discontinuance of the coinage of silver. It had been the unit of value of the world's money for 4,000 years, he said, and was now a universal money. From 1835 to 1874 silver commanded a premium over gold from 12 to 7 per cent. If France and Germany should cease to coin gold in their mints silver would be at a premium. a premium.

The resolutions were adopted and the following memorial was agreed upon by the committee whose names are appended:

It is desirable that the metallic money of the United States should consist of gold and sliver coin of interchangeable relative value, and that coinage should be restricted to the needs of commerce and the wants of the people; that the amount of sliver dollars now accommitted in the Government vaults is largely in excess of the requirements, and that it has been demonstrated by experience that this cannot be utilized at present as a circular medium; therefore your memorialists respectfully pray, that a bill may be speedily enacted by your homorable body, which shall provide that the coinage of sliver dollars shall be suspended for a period of at least two years next ensuing, and that in order to bring into gradual circulation the surplus coin now in the Treasury, the further issue of bills of the denomination of one and two dollars shall be discontinued.

Completed 2,847 garments. In the library there were 4,000 volumes, and last year there was a circulation of 17,747 volumes. The contemplated improvements would cost $10,000; $7,200 had almost on Wednesday to consider the demands of the Retail Druggists' Union met again yesterday at the Manhattan Hotel. There were twenty-six gentlemen present, representing all the large houses of the city, several preprietary medicine manufacturers and wholesale dealers in various parts of the country, besides representatives of the National Wholesale Druggists' Association, and the National Wholesale Druggists' Association, and the National Wholesale Druggists' Association, and the National Retail Druggists' Association, and the National Retail Druggists' Association. The meeting was private, While the convention was in the main in sympathy with the movement of the retail druggists, the wholesale men regarded some of the demands as unjustifiable, especially that requiring them to sell no goods to firms outside of the legitimate drug trade. The Campion pian, however, was adopted in its essential features, and the majority of those present signed an agreement to refuse custom to all cutters of prices of proprietary medicines.

As the regular meeting of the New-York Druggists' Union took place in the atternoon at No. 140 Sixih-ave., the convention, as soon as it had reached a conclusion, sent a committee to present the matter to the Union. The proposition of the committee, acceding in the man to the demands of the druggists, but reserving the right to sell drugs as they chose, was not at first favorably received. Seven wholesale houses of this city had already agreed on all points to the request of the Union, and there was a disposition to coerce the other dealers. In the discussion there was an evident difference of sentiment among the members of the Union, The extreme party, of which J. G. Seabury, of Seabury & Johnson, was the spokesman, demanded an unconditional yielding on the part of the wholesale trade to their demands, and denounced the wholesalers as sellish and treacherous unless such a course were pursued. J.D. Fairehild, of Brooklyo, orged a more moderate course, and recommended co-operation with the wholesale and manufacturing druggists as far as they were willing to accede. The latter counsel finally prevailed, and the Campion plan was adopted as proposed by the convention.

ARE ELECTRIC LIGHT WIRES DANGEROUS?

A reporter of The Tribune called the attention of President Lynch, of the United States Electric Hluminating Company, to the action of the Fire Commissioners on Wednesday, in asking the Boffed of Aldernaen to pass an ordinance that all electric light wires be laid underground in the future and that the wires now in use be removed to the opposite side of the streets from the wires of the Fire Prepartment. Mr. Lynch said:

It is all rubbish. The wires of both electric light commandes have not done $200 worth of damage in four years. There hasn't been a fire alarm box burned out by the electric wires in more than a year. That class of accidents is extremely rare. Would you stop teams from going through Breadway because a horse runs away corosionally and hurts somebody? The strong current in our wires does not interfere with the working of the fire alarm wires. The Metropolitan Telephone Company allows us to place our wires beside its wires, and eight of our heavy wires with their strong currents are running close to the small telephone wires. Do you suppose that the fire alarm service is injured, if telephonic communication is not harmed by our wires. The Police Department differs from the Fire Department, for the Dibee authorities have recently asked permission to direich their telegraph wires on our poles.

R. W. Aborn, treasurer of the Brush Electric Light Company said on the subject:

The service of the Fire Department is not injured at all by our wires. At least, it is the fault of the department if its wires are injured by ours, and I don't see how we can be held responsible if the department does not take proper care of its wires. We were given permission to place our wires where they are, and that permission cannot be taken away in the manner proposed. Whenever we place our wires it is done with the sanction of the Board of Fire Underwriters. Incarance men will tell you everywhere that the electric light is much safer than gas.

George L. Dale, of the firm of Dale, Barnes, Morse & Co., dry-goods merchants, of Minneapolis, took a Sixth Avenue elevated train last Friday afternoon and proceeded up-town to the Buckingham Hotel. After arriving, there he discovered that a wallet, which he had placed in his left-hand inside overcost breast pocket, was missing. It contained seven indees drawn by his firm to their own order and indorsed by them, payable at the Central National Bank in this city, and amounting in the aggregate to $67,554 38. Payment was immediately stopped at the bank, and circulars were sent to the other banks in the city, informing them of the loss, and cautioning them against negotiating ethe notes. Mr. Dale supposed that he was robbed either in entering or leaving the train. Nothing has been heard of the notes since. They are worthless to the holder, but a suitable reward will be paid if they are 'returned to the Central National Bank. ROBBED ON AN ELEVATED TRAIN.

THE TELEGRAPH TROUBLES IN TEXAS. WESTERN UNION OFFICERS SAY THEY ARE AD-JUSTED-THE TELEGRAPHERS' POSITION.

Officers of the Western Union Telegraph Com-pany said yesterday that the difficulties which were pany said yesterday that the difficulties which were reported to exist among the company's operators at Galveston, Texas, were due to a misunderstanding. Several men had left their positions there at once, but all except two of them had returned to work as soon as the matter had been explained. The officers of the company expressed the utmost confidence that the difficulty had been overcome.

John B. Faltaval, Editor of The Telegraphers' Advocate, who was one of the leaders of last year's strike, said:

John B. Faltaval, Editor of The Telegraphers Advocate, who was one of the leaders of last year's strike, said:

The Western Union people are making light of the troubles in Texas. The cause of the trouble was a notice sent out on February 5 that the hours of work would be increased to nine and a half a day with thirty-one instead of twenty-eight days a month, and that pay would be reduced, the new order of things to go into effect on March I. The manager at San Antonio and the operators at San Antonio, Houston and Galveston immediately tendered their resignations. The company endfavored to get men to go from New-Orleans to take the places of the strikers, but they were unsuccessful. The same thing was tried in St. Louis with similar results. An effort has been made to send men from here, but they have not succeeded in getting anybody. Should an attempt be made to force men to go to Texas it would be resisted, and the Western Union would find themselves with a fight on their hands which would be even harder than the one of last year. We regard this Texas affair as simply a feeler as to how the men would most certainty precipitate a strike. The Telegraphers' Brotherhood has retained its organization all over the country. Just after the failure of the strike there was a great failing-off in the membership, but now it is very nearly as strong in numbers as it was before. The feeling among the men is more independent than it ever was. The opposition to the Western Union, consisting of the Postal, Ballimore and Ohio and Bankers and Merchants' companies, is so powerful now that there is a competition for men; every good man is employed and there is a constant demant for good operators. We will not take the initiative in any movement, but will resist any attempt to force men to take the places of the Texas strikers or to reduce wages. Our efforts now are solely directed to strengthening the organization. The Baltimore and Ohio Company, both among those who went out on a strike and those that remained.

WOMEN'S WORK FOR WOMEN. DE. JOHN HALL'S OPINION OF THEIR CHRISTIA: ASSOCIATION-TALK AND TEA.

ASSOCIATION—TALK AND TEA.

The hall of the Young Women's Christian Association was as a rose garden last night. From the walls to the reading-dosk was a mass of color. Ladies occupied every available space with bright costumes and were alternately eager in discussing the remarks of the Rev. Dr. John Hall and the possibilities of the tea, which was to follow at 9 p. m. Bowles Colgate stood behind an immense bunch of Jacqueminot and tea-roses and after thanking the friends of the association for their attendance at the annual reception he introduced the Rev. Mr. Rainsford, of St. George's Church, who after reading a psalm, offered a prayer. Then Dr. Hall stepped up to the reading-desk and told his audience what he thought of the association. He talked of women's work and said that some of the most valued of all his friends were women, who earned their bread by their honest work. He besought his hearers not to allow the growing good of the association to become stultified by becoming merely a fashionable charity. The organization needed about $10,000 to widen its facilities for work and he thought that if some of his wealthy listeners, instead of spending their money for their selfish gratification, should build an addition to the association building it would afford them the knowledge that they had furnished pleasure for hundreds of their fellow creatures.

Mr. Colgate reviewed the history of the association and referred to its work during the last year. He said that the charity which had been begun by a few ladies led by Mrs. Marshall O. Roberts, had blossomed forth into one of the most promising institutions in the city. Last year the roll of boarding-places for young women which was kept by the association held 178 addresses, and 422 appliblossomed forth into one of the most promising restitutions in the city. Last year the roil of boarding-places for young women which was kept by the association held 178 addresses, and 422 applicants had been found homes. There had been 437 women entered in the classes; but the lack of accommodations had obliged the management to turn a number of applicants away. It was partly on this account that additional room was needed. It was also desired that elementary classes should be formed for young girls. In 1883 there had been 1,907 applicants for employment and of that number 1,241 had been found places. In the swing machine class there were 106 workers who had completed 2,847 garments. In the library there were 9,000 volumes, and last year there was a circulation of 17,747 volumes. The contemplated improvements would cost $10,000; $7,200 had already been subscribed.

After Dr. Hall had pronounced the benediction, ten was served. Among those present were Mrs.

THE MURPHY LIBRARY SALE.

The sale of the Murphy library was continued yesterday in Chuton Hall with an undiminished attendance. The afternoon sale included an especially large number of works on the early colonial period of America. A dictionary prepared by a Jesuit missionary for mission work among the Manni Indians, and containing prayers, hymns, psaims, catechism and exposition, in the native language, was warmly bid for, and sold for $240. A rare tract, ascribed to John Eliot, published in 1639 and describing the progress of the Gospel among the New-England Indians, brought $235. Nathaniel Morton's "New England's Memorial: a Brief Relation of the Memorable and Remarkable Passarcs in the Providence of God, manifested to the Planters of New-England," interested the antiquarians as a work of great rarity, and brought $175. Another work on the Indian missions, Matthew Mayhew's "Conquests and Triumphs of Grace," narrating the labors among the Indians of Martha's Vinevard, and containing in addition a tract of John Eliot's labors, by Cotton Mather, was purchased for $165. The collection wasnotably rich in the works of Increase and Cotton Mather, though the books were not of sufficient rarity to bring large sams. Cotton Mather's "Wonders of the Invisible World; an Account of the Tryalsof Several Witches lately Executed in New-England," (1693) brought $42, and a tract by Increase Mather on the same subject and with the same date went for $38. Eleven different editions of Peter Martyr's works on American discovery were offered in the afternoon. The rarest of these, the 1530 edition, brought $210. A black-letter print of Martyr's book, issued in 1511, sold for $180, and another black-letter editions of Oviedo excited some interest. The rarest of these, oviedo's "General History of the Indies," published at Seville in 1535, and valuable because of an autograph signature of the anthor at the end, sold for $60. Persons who found it necessary to pass the Staals Zeitung building yesterday morning shortly after 7 o'clock, were startled by an explosion which raised the coal-hole covers in the vicinity, and shattered the plate-glass in Hollender's eating-rooms in the basement of the building. A fire alarm was sent out, and when the engines arrived it was found that a coil of gas-pipes in the coal vaults had been broken, and that during the night the gas had leaked, filling the cellar vaults. When Mr. Hollender's employes arrived in the kitchen they lighted a gas jet; the flame of the match set the gas in the vaults on fire, and the explosion was the result. The men were knocked down by the force of the concussion and badly burned about the faces and hands. They were Heinrich Uffer, age twenty-four, of No. 81 Allen-st., and Heinrich Bachman, aged twenty-one, of No. 130 Rector-st. The injured men were sent to the Chambers Street Hospital. The damage to the building will amount to about $500.

CLUBBED FOR STRIKING A POLICEMAN.

Peter Grube, a coal-shoveller on the elevated railroad, was roughly handled by Officer Devery, of the Nineteenth Frecinct, in the liquor-store of J. R. In the Yorkville Police Court yesterday, when charged with assaulting the officer, he said that he was ordered to leave the place by Fincken's partner. He refused to go and the policeman clubbed him terribly and arrested him. The officer said that Grube was drunk and had struck him.

The evidence for the prosecution was strong, and when the jury announced its verdict Recorder Smyth said: "The evidence in this case against the prisoner seemed to me so overwhelmingly clear that I am compelled to dissent from the finding of the jury. There was little excitement except on the top floor, whence a number of servant girls elimbed to the roof and screamed for help. HINDRANCES TO THE MINISTRY. "Causes that have hindered or impaired the fluences of the Christian ministry" was the subject of ishop Littlejohn's second lecture in the Lenten course, St. Peter's Church, in Twentieth-st., Wednesday night e said in substance:

The cause that lies deepest and reaches furthest is the time one thing the Christian priesthood chiefly represents—Christian priesthood chiefly represents—Christianity as a supernatural force. Men will be induced by the priesthood only as they accept its authority to teach and guide, and are convinced of its power and sifts. This is at once the most and the least religious of generations. It is the most, if judged by its interest in the discussion of religious questions; and the least, if judged by its actual reception of the positive teachings of religion. "The Modern spirit" has contracted the area, but has not changed either the quality or the direction of the work and influence of the ministry.

or the direction of the work and influence of the ministry.

The next cause is certain unscriptural notions widely prevalent among Christians, which are part of the unfortunate legncy from the sixteenth century extremes, which magnify the individual at the expense of the organic body, making each member in the last resort oractically independent not merely of the authority, but of the life-feeding editices and ministrations of the body. The Church has nothing to other the soul that it may not obtain in some other way. The Chiristian preschood has no official status between the Church and its member, and a portion only in a loosely figurative sense represents Christ's mechanoral work between God and the individual soul. It is a convenience, a help, nothing more.

ore. The third leading cause has been the sect principle. The third reading clusterists country, has stripped the ministry of all control or direction of popular education. The last cause is the decay of discipline in the Church. Among other results this decay has tended to neutralize and bring into contempt the powers conferred upon the priesthood by ordination.

We do not promose to destroy for the purpose of asserting the rights of the Bridge. I was instructed to provide in the best way I could for the comfort and convenience of the travelling public. The two lines of rail will be extended from the Bridge across to the line of the buildings on Chatham-st. and the stairs which now face toward The Stata Zeitung building will be turned around and will face Frankin Square. Then the stairs now so inconveniently close to the Bridge from the Bridge will be moved up north thirty feet, so as to clear the Bridge front.

"By this arrangement the currents of passengers that now meet and form a fam in front of the Bridge will be diverted; for passengers for the Bridge from the elevated railway and vice versa will have their passage-ways overhead. Passengers from the foot promenade will be south of the block occasioned by passengers taking the elevated from the street to go up town; and the passengers from the clevated who wish to descend to the street will use the stairs on the west side of Chatham-st, which will be opposite the Register's oilloe. This will distribute the tides of humanity pretty fairly, and will leave a good broad space for teams, that now are entangled between the foot of the western stairway and the neighboring post.
